PREPARATIONS ARE COMPLETED FOR INAUGURAL

President's Hand Will Rest Upon Bible Verses Favored Since Childhood

VETERANS GUARD OF HONOR

Gala Day for Washington Rivals Impressive Ceremonies of Early History

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—When President Coolidge is sworn in tomorrow afternoon on the East Porch of the Capitol, his hand will rest upon a set of verses from the Bible that have been his favorites since childhood.

They are from the first chapter of the gospel of St. John, and include the following:

"In The Beginning was the word, and the word was with god, and the word was God."

"And He Saith unto Him: Verily, Verily, I say unto you, Hereafter Ye shall see Heaven open, and the Angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of Man."

FAMILY SENTIMENT

When Calvin Coolidge was a little boy, just learning his letters his grandmother gave him a copy of the scriptures, from this he used to read to his grandfather, then an aged and bed-ridden man. The grandfather, it is said, loved no part of the Bible so well as the opening of the Gospel of St. John. That sentiment of nearly half a century ago has remained with the man who now is President of the United States.

Family sentiment power stronger than national tradition in the selection of a particular Bible for use in administration of the oath. Mr. Coolidge was offered the volume upon which George Washington laid his hand in 1789. But he will use the well-worn book presented him by his grandmother. It has been beside him ever since he came to Washington as Vice President.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED

The inaugural committee announced today that its preparations were entirely completed. Contractors building the sidewalk grandstands for the parade, however, were not so optimistic. Scores of carpenters are working with feverish energy to complete the stands in front of the White House. Even the President's reviewing stand was badly in need of a few last minute touches when darkness stopped the workmen. The President and his immediate party will be the only ones assured of protection in case of rain. The Presidential stand has been fitted out with glass windows and a storm proof door.

Painted in the inaugural colors—buff and gray—it is quite the most pretentious of the temporary structures which have been thrown together during the last weeks. Yellow silk, gathered in the center, forms its ceiling and heavy rugs adorn the floor. Every care has been taken to provide for President Coolidge's comfort while he reviews the parade.

It was announced tonight that Civil War veterans, members of the Grand Army of the Republic, will be President Coolidge's guard of honor when he rushed to and from the Capitol tomorrow.

COOLIDGE AND DAWES CONFERENCE

President Coolidge and Vice-President-elect Dawes conferred twice today with regard to final preparations for tomorrow's ceremony. They will arrive at the Capitol shortly after 11 o'clock in the morning, where they will be met by the committee on arrangements and their various military aides. They will be escorted first to their respective chambers and

Radio Sets Are Being Tuned Up For President's Address Today

In preparation for President Coolidge's inaugural address this morning, a number of radio sets are being tuned up and put in shape in anticipation of the event.

Both the Richmond Union high school and the Junior high have sets installed and there is also to be one in the real estate office of Sidney S. Clark.

The radio at the Union high is an Atwater-Kent set, obtained through the courtesy of Joe Latta, owner of a radio shop in San Pablo, and he will operate the set. The school set at the Junior high will be used as well as an outfit furnished by R. Courver, wood-work instructor at the school, who together with H. L. Hunn have installed and will operate the set.

The outfit in Clark's office has been obtained through the kindness of C. C. Baker, deputy city assessor. The inaugural day ceremonies will begin about 8:30 a. m., Pacific Coast time and it is expected that the President's speech will come through at 9 o'clock.

S. F. Chamber of Commerce Voices Gas Tax Objection

Opposition to an increase in the gasoline tax is being voiced by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce according to word received yesterday by the Richmond Chamber of Commerce. The resolution adopted by the San Francisco body is similar to one recently adopted by the board of directors of Richmond. The statement from the San Francisco chamber setting forth their stand on the highway situation in the state is as follows:

The Board of Directors of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce after giving full consideration to the matter of road development in California, went on record last Wednesday as favoring a pay-as-you-go policy. This applies to the maintenance of existing roads and construction and maintenance of new roads. In this connection the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved: That the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce favors a pay-as-you-go policy by direct taxation on motor vehicles for the maintenance of existing roads and the construction of new roads.

In the matter of financing construction work, the board deemed that it had not been sufficiently demonstrated that adequate funds are not at present available under existing taxation for proposed construction. In presenting its views on this feature the Board of Directors adopted the following resolution:

Resolved: That the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce opposes any increase in gasoline or other taxation until an adequate and comprehensive highway program for the State and the San Francisco district is presented and the costs thereof estimated.

Loan Company Files Articles

Articles of incorporation of the Richmond Industrial Loan and Finance company of Richmond was filed yesterday with the County Clerk Monday. The corporation is capitalized at $50,000, divided into 500 shares of a par value of $100 per share. The directors named in the articles are William J. Richards, Jr., Thomas M. Carlson and E. J. Flint all of Richmond.

Councilman Lane Is First to File Election Petition

Councilman William L. Lane is first to file his election petition as a candidate for councilman at the municipal election to be held in May. Within less than 24 hours more than the required number of signatures were obtained to the petition.

Councilman Lane's petition for a place on the ballot for re-election was filed with City Clerk A. C. Farris, yesterday afternoon. Official action designating May 11 as municipal election day was taken by the city council Monday evening.

On Councilman Lane's petition were 179 signatures, while the number required is only 122. Lane is now concluding his second term, 12 years as city councilman.

Two other council members whose terms expire this year and who will probably be candidates for re-election are Mrs. Mattie Chandler and W. W. Scott. Both have served one term.

Moon Auto Agency Established Here

J. R. Conner, proprietor of the Fourth Street Garage, located at the corner of Fourth street and Nevins avenue, announced yesterday that he has accepted the Richmond agency for the Moon automobile, sales and service.

Mr. Conner has just recently had the Fourth Street Garage repainted and re-arranged to welcome the new arrivals, and now he has one of the prettiest auto sales departments in the city. He expects to show the people of Richmond the latest thing in motor cars.

The next meeting of the board of directors will be held on the first Tuesday in April, April 17, and at that time officers for the association will be elected.

Preparations are being made to have a group of local Y. members attend a meeting of laymen and directors of the Y. M. C. A. of northern California at Berkeley on Monday, March 9, at which time Dr. John B. Mott, the general secretary of the national council of the Y. M. C. A., will be present as principal speaker.

Dr. Mott is nationally known as a statesman and was named by Theodore Roosevelt as the greatest American and it is with great anticipation that the boys are looking forward to the evening of his appearance in Berkeley.

The revised plans for the new Municipal Natatorium will be placed before the City Council at the meeting on next Monday night according to announcement made yesterday by E.

20,000 KLAN MEN TO HOLD CEREMONIAL

Richmond To Be Scene of Big Parade Morning of March 15; and Night Meet

KLANSMEN TO GATHER HERE

Highways to be Packed With Klan Machines From All Northern Section

OAKLAND, March 3.—The announcement was made here this afternoon by T. S. Moodie, Great Titan of the northern province of California, that Richmond had been selected as the meeting place of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of the northern district, which is scheduled to take place on March 15th.

The northern province of California takes in all the territory from Watsonville on the south, to Yreka on the north, including all of the great Sacramento valley, the coast counties, and the bay district.

It is stated that 20,000 Klansmen from all of these northern counties are planning to attend the meeting at Richmond, and it will be one of the greatest gatherings ever held in the bay section of the state.

It is planned that there will be a monster parade in the morning, after which the convention of the northern district will be held at East Shore park, and in the evening, there will be a great outdoor ceremonial.

Many of the klansmen will make the trip to Richmond by automobile, and it is expected the highways will be packed with klansmen from all the northern section of the state for a day or two previous to the monster meeting.

Most Popular of Books Visualized For Special Film

Still popular after running through scores of huge editions since its first mighty bid for enduring fame more than 40 years ago, "Black Beauty," by Anna Sewall is establishing a record in another field of human interest. After 40 years, "Black Beauty" ranks eighth in popularity among the world's books. At the beginning of its career in motion pictures its appeal to the public promises to be even stronger than the one it made through the printed page.

"Black Beauty," a Vitaphone all star production, will be shown at the Wesley M. E. Church Friday night.

After long continued and patient experiments, it was found for the most part no training would be necessary, as all the action of horses in the wonderful book is natural to them at certain times under certain circumstances. The fact that the action is natural, spontaneous, is an important part in the greatness of Anna Sewall's immortal work. The filming of this action, therefore, became largely a matter of time and patience, and complete success was attained at last.

A. Hoffman, city engineer

A conference was held yesterday and the plans were gone over and it was decided that they are now suitable for presentation to the council.

Attending the conference were J. A. McVittie, city manager; Mr. De Sano, representative of Architect Nabett, E. A. Hoffman, city engineer, and the building committee of the city council on which are Mrs. Marie L. Osborn and E. J. Garrard.

Group of Spanish Type Homes to be Built Here By Outside Capital

Building permits were secured yesterday afternoon by Golden L. Downing, president of the Appraisal and Sales Corporation, for the construction of four beautiful Spanish type homes on the east side of Twenty-fourth street, between Rheem and Lowell avenues.

This is a group scheme fronting on the entire block, and inaugurates a real, constructive building program for the account of the Richmond company. The initial program represents an effort of some magnitude and in its attainment will bring into the city that prized thing called "outside money." This support from the outside is being extended because of faith in Richmond's future and the theory of the building situation and its solution.

RICHMOND NEEDS STUDIED

Mr. Downing has made a study of the needs of Richmond and the factors contributing to its phenomenal growth and development today has led his company to the conclusion that here and now, in the Spring of 1925, is the time and the opportunity to answer the real housing problem of Richmond.

That problem is the lack of the most modern and intelligently constructed homes of real architectural beauty at a moderate price. Richmond wants its workers and business men to reside here; yet the number of homes for rent or for sale is relatively nominal. The scarcest thing of all is the artistic home of up-to-the-minute design and appealing detail, located in desirable neighborhoods, and marketed at a price within the reach of the average man and woman.

FOR BEAUTY AND UTILITY

That is the particular local point of the plans and efforts of the company represented by Mr. Downing. Their homes will be built with a careful eye for beauty and utility in harmony, and will contain all the necessities which the discerning housewife demands. By supplying that ideal of a home in a high class district at a truly moderate price, it is felt that the answer to the real building problem in Richmond will be given.

Sentiment has played its part in the plans for the first unit. It was desired to initiate the effort in keeping with the idea of a typically California home. So the architect, C. L. McCreery, was requested to design a group of Spanish houses, the first of all architectural art in California, and it was decided to place them on one entire block in a real sunshine belt.

LIKE SPANISH VILLA

All these homes will face to the west, and the two inside dwellings will be built somewhat more removed from the street than the two on the corners, thus breaking the continuity of straight line. The garages will be constructed in accord and on the rear lot corners, so that an airplane view of the whole give the effect of a Spanish villa settlement in a rectangle.

The group idea, however, has not been allowed to overshadow the fact of there being four distinct homes.

A landscape gardener has been engaged to provide a full lawn, planting and parking scheme to complete the ensemble. The fortunate purchasers of these dwellings will, in every sense of the word, move into completed homes with completed gardens.

WM. BRACKETT DENIES BRIBE PLOT CHARGES

Admission Secured From Former Assemblyman That He Erred In Statement

"LOBBYIST" IN EXTORTION

Alleged to Have Demanded Between $5,000 and $10,000 To Defeat Bill

(By Universal Service)

SACRAMENTO, March 3.—Former Assemblyman William Brackett of Oakland, accused as "go-between" in the alleged Chinese extortion plot, came before the Assembly special investigating committee late today with a sweeping denial that he solicited bribes from Oakland and San Francisco Chinese to defeat Assemblyman Edward J. Smith's herb bill and with the declaration that Smith and Senator Edgar S. Hurley of Oakland were not leagued with him in such an enterprise.

Members of the committee forced Brackett to admit discrepancies between his testimony and his statement when summoned before District Attorney Earl Warren of Alameda county on February 24, but the former Assemblyman maintained under oath that Chinese witnesses in the present hearing have "told an untruth" in charging that bribery was sought by him.

WILKINSON HIT

Sidestepping the allegation of three bay city Chinese that he demanded bribes ranging from $5,000 to $10,000 to keep Smith's bill from passing, Brackett turned the limelight, on Sergeant-at-arms Charles H. Wilkinson of the Assembly.

Brackett quoted Senator Hurley as saying that some one had tried to approach Smith with a bribe on the bill and as mentioning the name of Wilkinson.

"Senator Hurley told me to be careful about the Smith bill as he had heard that money was being offered on it," testified Brackett. "He said to lay off, if it proved to be true, and also said that Smith had told him some one had tried to reach him on the bill. Hurley mentioned Wilkinson."

ASKED "LOBBY" FEE

Admitting that he asked Dr. Fong Wan, Oakland herb doctor, for $5,000 to defeat the Smith herb bill, Brackett said that this was not an extortion attempt but a request for what he considered a fair fee as a lobbyist before the Legislature.

Building Report Shows $30,215 Was Spent in February

According to the monthly report of Building Inspector E. E. Grow, permits were issued during the month of February totaling $30,215. Of this amount $24,165 is for new buildings and $6,050 for alterations on old buildings.

The total number of permits issued during the month was 32. Of these 24 were for new and nine for old buildings. The fees for the month amounted to $72.70, $56.70 for new construction and $16.00 for alterations.

THE FEES FOR THE 26 ELECTRICAL PERMITS GRANTED WERE $46.20.

SPEEDERS PAY FINES
For confusing a smooth stretch of the Richmond streets with a speedway, Tony Panfracio, Oakland and Joseph Matteucci, San Francisco were fined $15 and $25 respectively when they pleaded guilty in Police Judge C. A. Odell's court.

WHY I BELIEVE IN RICHMOND AND THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

BY L. G. EBY

Agent, Southern Pacific Company

I believe in Richmond, because, with the advantages provided here by nature, and being so favorably situated, expansion and success is sure to come.

I believe in the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, because, IT IS ALIVE, and in order to properly function must have co-operation and financial support.

HABIT

Nearly everyone has one or more bad habits. They may not be habits of dissipation, etiquette, or manners, and in some instances they may be so obscure, that they are referred to as peculiarities.

Men drink, smoke and chew. With the possible exception of chewing, women do the same. Habit grows upon us all. We even become the slaves of good habits, and when we once become a slave to a habit, it immediately takes its place among the bad ones.

A habit most difficult to overcome is lack of self control. Many times a soft answer, or a still tongue has far better results than a bitter retort.

It is amazing to observe the good that comes to those who practice self control. The very one who has abused them, shamed at his efforts to accomplish their undoing, is more than eager to make amends to the person who has given him the gentle answer rather than the vitriolic epithet.

Do not let a habit grow upon you. If you walk to work along a certain route each morning, by all means change your route once in a while. Routine and rut are synonymous. If you feed the chickens promptly at six each evening, feed them at five once in a while. You are only setting them a bad example by your extreme punctuality.

Creations of habit, even though the habits be good ones, are bound by chains, just as surely as the drunkard or drug addict. The man or woman who succeeds is the one that does something different.

It has often been said that the rolling stone gathers no moss. Very true. But rather gather no moss at all than to stay at home and allow it to grow upon your back. The rolling stone may not gather, but it becomes smooth from excessive wear.

Vacations were made for those who wish, for a time to change their habits. The most dignified and sedate office man, will "cut up" like a three-year-old when you transfer him to some mountain top. He will curl like a bird, (not a song bird) when you send him to the creek for a pail of water, and though he be the most fastidious man in the office, two weeks on a camping trip will make him look like a tramp. And he is proud of it. Even this temporary change of habit has a most beneficial effect. So change your habits now and then, even though the change be a temporary one.

DRIVING UP GASOLINE TAXES

There are proposals in several western states to raise the tax on gasoline from one to three cents a gallon. The main reason put forth for this increase, that automobile owners ought to be made to pay in proportion to the use they make of the roads, and that this can be accomplished only by an assessment against gasoline.

However, in Texas, one-fourth of the revenue yielded by this tax would be used in support of the schools, and only three-fourths of it in the building and maintenance of highways.

Huge quantities of gasoline are consumed in tractors, motor cars, trucks, launches and interurban railways, which either make no use or very little of state highways. Their owners would get no proportionate return from the money which this tax would take from them. Also, a large amount of gasoline is used in stationary engines.

PAVING REPAIR COSTS

One of the reasons advanced for the popularity of asphalt street pavements—as evidenced by the fact that 53.0 per cent of all street paving of types higher than water-bound macadam in the 290 leading cities of Our Country is of asphalt—is that asphalt pavements require only a very low cost of maintenance.

Massachusetts was the first state in the union to provide for state highways and has a very large mileage of asphalt pavings. In 1923 it cost the state only 1.17 cents per square yard, or $124 per for maintaining 1,742,166 square yards of asphalt concrete pavements. This fact is all the more remarkable when it is considered that a large part of the pavement has been in use for 20 to 25 years.

For Warm Spring Days There Are Ensembles With Georgette Wraps to Match.

THERE are some women who still feel not quite properly clad for the street unless they are wearing some sort of wrap. Perhaps this is a relic of Victorian prudery, but it persists none-the-less. There must be something at least to suggest a wrap in the street costume to make it seem really suitable outdoors. That is the prejudiced point of view.

To many other women, of course, there never seems to be any reason at all for wearing a wrap save for the purpose of providing warmth. And for such women there can be little excuse for the flimsy little the hem and worn over a frock of crepe de chine, which is trimmed with crepe de chine—both georgette and crepe de chine being of a soft shade of gray.

The same model might well be developed in one of the new so-called natural tones, which are of course the tawny shades of unbleached fabrics. The band of fur is gray to match the gray frock and should be chosen to match the georgette as nearly as possible, since the effect would be rather marred by a striking contrast in the tone of this fur and the frock.

It is this desire to maintain the monotone in certain frocks that has undoubtedly prompted the French dressmakers who have been using the dyed furs that have caused so much comment recently. If you want to trim a mauve frock with fur and do not want to create a striking contrast, the simplest thing to do so to have the fox or hare or rabbit that you use dyed a similar tone of mauve.

wraps of georgette and other diaphanous material that have been produced for spring. There are evening wraps of lace, white lace, black lace, or lace dyed to match the frock with which they are to be worn. There are georgette coats. Often the georgette wrap is part of an ensemble. Sometimes the frock is likewise of georgette and sometimes of one of the silk crepes. The sketch shows something of this sort—the coat of crepe georgette edged with fur about wastes, sometimes the wife. And perhaps the proportion is just about fifty-fifty. As many men as women are wasteful of the family income.

But times change and the attitude nowadays toward wastefulness is different, perhaps, from what it used to be. Years ago a man married to a wasteful wife, even we imagine, if he had a good deal of money, would have laid down the law to her regarding her wastefulness. Nowadays the husband of a wasteful woman usually has little to say. He must watch his wife throw his money away without complaint. Stinginess is something no man likes to own up to. He is afraid of being considered stingy, in fact, so much so that he will give in to a wasteful wife without complaint, rather than run the risk of trying to curb her wastefulness.

Of course there are more women who are careful of expenditures than there are who are wasteful. Fortunately, too. For these women conserve the family income, save a little, spend wisely, learn by their mistakes, and before they know it have become real mistresses of finance—in a small way.

The interesting thing is that these modern women are both the product of the same sort of training. Women have within the last 20 or 30 years taken over the spending of money for themselves—sometimes with excellent results sometimes with appalling ones.

It all depends on the woman.

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

"BARRE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitaphone Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, is an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

Nepece, the Willow, while hunting with her father, Pierrot, shot at Barre, the dog-wolf, inflicting only a trivial wound. When she found Barre was not a full-blooded wolf she greatly regretted having fired. She pursued Barre to pet him but he disappeared. Barre encountered Oohoomisee, a huge snow owl, and the two had a terrific fight, in which Barre conquered but did not kill. This fight was good medicine for the young Barre, giving him confidence in himself.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

Barre's rock, instead of rising for a hundred feet, more straight up, was possibly as high as a man's head. It was in the edge of the creek-bottom, with the spruce forest close at its back. For many hours he did not sleep, but lay keenly alert, his ears tuned to catch every sound that came out of the dark world about him. There was more than curiosity in one way; he had learned that he was a very small part of this wonderful earth that lay under the stars and the moon, and he was keenly alive with the desire to become better acquainted with it without any more fighting or hurt. Tonight he knew what it meant when he saw now and then gray shadows float silently out of the forest into the moonlight—the owls, monsters of the breed with which he had fought. He heard the crackling of hooved feet and the smashing of heavy bodies in the underbrush. He heard again the moaning of the moose. Voices came to him that he had not heard before—the sharp yap-yap-yap of a fox, the unearthly laughing cry of a great Northern loon on a lake half a mile away, the scream of a lynx that came floating through miles of forest, the low, soft croaks of the night-hawks between himself and the stars.

All these sounds held their new meaning for Barre. Swiftly he was coming into his knowledge of the

The beavers lost no time in getting at their labor, and Barre watched and listened without so much as rustling a blade of the grass in which he was concealed. He was trying to understand. He was striving to place these curious and comfortable-looking creatures in his knowledge of things. They did not alarm him; he felt no uneasiness at their number or size. His stillness was not the quietness of discretion, but rather of a strange and growing desire to get better acquainted with this curious four-legged brotherhood of the pond. At first they had begun to make the big forest less lonely for him. And then, close under him—not more than ten feet from where he lay—he saw something that almost gave voice to the puppyish longing for companionship that was in him.

Down there, on a clean strip of the shore that rose out of the soft mud of the pond, waddled fat little Umisk and three of his playmates. Umisk was just about Barre's age, perhaps a week or two younger. But he was fully as heavy, and almost as wide as he was long.

And then, of a sudden, woman saw Barre. It was a big beaver swimming down the pond with a sapling timber for the new dam that was under way. Instantly he loosed his hold and faced the shore. And then, like the report of a rifle, there came the crack of his big flat tail on the water—the beaver's signal of danger that on a quiet night can be heard half a mile away.

"Danger," it warned. "Danger—danger—danger!" Scarcely had the signal gone forth when tails were crackling in all directions—in the pond, in the hidden canals, in the thick willows and alders. To Umisk and his companions they said: "Run for your lives!"

Barre stood rigid and motionless now. In amazement he watched the four little beavers plunge into the pond and disappear. He heard the sounds of other and heavier bodies striking the water. And then there followed a strange and disquieting silence. Softly Barre whined, and his whine was almost a sobbing cry. Why had Umisk and his little mates run away from him? What had he done that they didn't want to make friends with him? A great loneliness swept over him—a loneliness greater even than that of his first night away from his mother. The last of the sun faded out of the sky as he stood there. Darker shadows crept over the pond. He looked into the forest, where night was gathering—and with another whining cry he slunk back into it. He had not found friendship. He had not found comradeship. And his heart was very sad.

Next morning Barre found many crawfish along the creek, and he feasted on their succulent flesh until he felt that he would never be hungry again. Nothing had tasted quite so good since he had eaten the partridge of which he had robbed Sekoosew the ermine.

In the middle of the afternoon Barre came into a part of the forest that was very quiet and peaceful. The creek had deepened. In places its banks swept out until they formed small ponds. Twice he made considerable detours to get around these ponds. He traveled very quietly, listening and watching. Not since the ill-fated day he had left the old windfall had he felt quite so much at home as now. It seemed to him that at last he was treading country which he knew, and where he would find friends. Perhaps this was another miracle-mystery of instinct—of nature. For he was in old Beaver-tooth's domain. It was here that his father and mother had hunted in the days before he was born. It was not far from here that Kazan and Beaver-tooth had fought that mighty duel under the water, from which Kazan had escaped with his life without another breath to lose.

Barre would never know these things. He would never know that he was traveling over old trails. But something deep in him gripped at him strangely. He sniffed the

CHAPTER VII
For two or three days Barre's excursions after food took him farther and farther away from the pond. But each afternoon he returned to it—until the third day. When he discovered a new creek, and Wakayoo. The creek was fully two miles back in the forest. This was a different sort of stream. It sang merrily, over a gravelly bed and between chasm walls of split rock. It formed deep pools and foaming eddies, and where Barre first struck it, the air trembled with the distant thunder of a waterfall. It was much pleasanter than the dark and silent beaver stream. It seemed possessed of life, and the rush and tumult of it—the song and thunder of the water—gave to Barre entirely new sensations. He made his way along it slowly and cautiously, and it was because of his slowness and caution that he came suddenly and unobserved upon Wakayoo, the black bear, hard at work fishing.

If Your Stomach Isn't Acting Right Begin Taking Salts

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate; then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities, which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will help prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink, which usually helps make pimples disappear.

If you follow the mode you will be quick to note that this frock is the last word in smartness, with the graceful flare at the front and the straight back. Here, you have the modish flare achieved without sacrificing in the slightest degree the slim straightness of the silhouette.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XX—PLANS GONE WRONG

It was several days before I saw Nick, who had gone to Boston on business. I kept thinking about that friend of his, Phil Leland, wondering if he really had taken my gold mesh bag and Nathalie's bracelet the evening he went with us to the dance club.

And if he had, what were we to do about it?

Nathalie was really distressed about her bracelet, but refused to think that Leland could have taken it.

VIOLET DARE

"That's absurd," she insisted. "He was a very pleasant young man, very well bred. He's a friend of the Williamses, whom I've known for years, and of the Philadelphia Laurences. I'm sure you're mistaken about him, Nancy."

"Well, perhaps I am," I answered, and resolved not to let her know how sure I was that I was not mistaken at all. When Nick got back, I told myself, I'd find out all about this Leland chap.

I dropped in at Nathalie's the next evening and found him there. We chatted about the various clubs and theaters and things of that kind. He had given a little dinner the evening before at Leonie's, the very smart new restaurant frequented by the Four Hundred, and the name of the society woman who had acted as hostess for him was certainly a guarantee of respectability.

Yet I had my suspicions. Nick phoned me as soon as he got back, and I begged him to meet me somewhere at once.

"Nick, what about this man Leland?" I demanded. "Is he perfectly all right, or is he inclined to pick up things that don't belong to him? Nathalie lost a bracelet the evening we went to that dance club with you and him, and I lost my gold mesh bag with the emerald clasp—and I can't help wondering—"

"Why not wonder if I took them?" he asked.

"Because I know better. But I have wondered about Leland, especially since you told me that he hasn't much money but goes around with a wealthy crowd."

"Well, I don't know anything about him, but I do know that he's pretty much up against it. I saw him this afternoon, and he wanted to borrow some money. Said he gave a dinner at Leonie's the other evening, rather unexpectedly. You know, that place is owned by a man who gives the names of the women who dine there to the society reporters. He knows lots of society people and has done pretty well in selling them that other evening by."

Mrs. Winton, the young Mrs. Winton. There were three other men and several debutantes in the party. When the check was brought the other men were dancing. She handed it to Leland and said: "You'll settle for this, won't you? The boys always do. Then you can be host at the dinner—won't that be fun?"

"The check ran well over two hundred dollars, with the wine and all, and Leland was pretty well stumped, hadn't a cent, as he had been hard hit last week in the stock market."

"But why does he try to go with people like that?" I asked.

"Oh, just because he likes to. I guess. And there's always a hope of a rich marriage just ahead, you know. He's attractive, dances well, and young men are all too few these days. He probably figures that if he can last through the year he'll get his reward."

"I think that's disgusting," I exclaimed. "And yet was it any more disgusting than the game that he played?" If Virginia had had her way, I'd have been angling for a rich husband just as Leland was angling for a rich wife.

We had gone to the Plaza to have tea and dance, following out my plan of letting Nick's wife's friends see us and tell her.

What I hadn't counted on was seeing the lady herself. She came in with two other very pretty girls and sat not far away from us. She was beautifully dressed, an exquisite looking thing. She looked as if she'd had someone to take care of her from the day she was born, as if she'd never had to wonder about money, never had to ask for anything she wanted because it was given to her without her asking.

I wondered what it would be like to feel like that.

She spoke to me very sweetly, too sweetly. I knew that she hated me, because she thought I had caught Nick's heart on the rebound, after she divorced him. Well, I hoped she was worried—it would do her good!

"Haven't you better ask her to dance?" I said to Nick. "I'm sure she'd like it."

"That's why I'm not going to," he answered. "I've always tried my best to do what she wanted me to—I think that was one reason why I lost out with her."

"Well, next time you get a chance, try the cave man line," I suggested. "She'll take you back, you know; she wants to now."

"Possibly," he replied. "But I don't know that I want to go. You're very attractive yourself, Nancy."

Baseball League To Be Formed Here

When the team managers and diamond fans gather in "Doc" W. L. Seawright's office in the Roosevelt high school at 730 tomorrow night, initial steps in this year's organization of the Richmond city baseball league will be taken.

A most successful season for the city leaguers is anticipated by J. H. Horner, president, and Seawright, secretary and they declared that indications are that each team will be able to recruit enough fast and high class ball tossers to be able to "strut their stuff" before the most rapid fan.

The middle of April will probably be the time of opening the season and at present four teams are practically certain of entering the league. These teams are: the Pullman, who took the championship last year, the Santa Fe, Schneider Tailors and the Mercantile Trust company. The Mercantile association will be managed by Dick Austin; the Tailors by Elmer Hansen; the Pullman by Huston, and the Santa Fe by G. E. Co. K.

SAN FRANCISCO Local exports for 1924 totaled $173,352,255, increase of $13,000,000 over 1923.

CLOVERDALE Construction work started on new Hillmer Peterson building.

BENEFIT SHOW SATURDAY FOR BOY SCOUT HALL

Lumber to finish off the kitchen and other interior work of the building has been furnished by the Standard Oil company and the work will be done by volunteer carpenters according to Councilman E. J. Garrard, head of the club's standing Boy Scout committee.

The members of the Lions Club subscribed for tickets for the Elks' benefit show to be presented in Oakland next Friday night for the veterans hospital in Livermore, in 100 per cent fashion. Attorney Wilbur S. Pierce, representing the Elks lodge of Richmond, conducted the sale of the tickets during the luncheon.

Carquinez Golf Directors Meet

A special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carquinez Golf club was held last night at the home of Dr. F. S. Abbott, president of the Board, who presided. The purpose of the meeting was for the discussion of the progress of the extra nine holes under construction. All work that has been done thus far was approved and it was stated that the work on these holes will be completed by the first of April.

It was previously anticipated that the work would not be finished for a much longer period, but the construction has progressed so rapidly that the full 18 hole course will be ready for golfers by April 1.

Daily Cross Word Puzzle

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fit in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white space remain uninterruptedly.

"Excuse Me," Is Train Load of Laugh Thrills at the California

Scene from Rupert Hughes' "EXCUSE ME"

Norma Shearer and Conrad Nagel renew screen acquaintances in "Excuse Me," Rupert Hughes' new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production which is coming to the California today. They are the hero and heroine of a story that sparkles with farcical situations which take place on a trans-continental train.

The last time the two players appeared together was in Monte Ball's "The Snare." In "Excuse Me" they both had their first fling at comedy, and both had the time of their lives making the picture.

THE STORY
Marjorie Newton and Harry Malloy, a young naval officer, are engaged to be married. He is assigned to duty in the Philippines, and on the eve of his departure, so that she may accompany him to the islands.

Minster on Every Train
After getting a license, they hasten to a minister, only a short while before train time. The clergyman is ill, and then their taxi gets in a smash-up, so that they can just make the station. Harry assures Marjorie there is a minister on every train. And there is; but when he is aboard he charges to push, being on a vacation. Marjorie is tearful when no clergyman is produced and Harry spends the night cramped up in the smoking compartment.

Then enters Frankie, with her husband. She insists that Harry pose as her husband to throw detectives off the track, and leaves the job to call him "PAK." The effect of this on Marjorie, and the other passengers on the train can easily be imagined.

From then on events follow hilariously, with troubles piling up by the minute for poor Harry, until just as things reach the climax, the train has a smash-up, and in the crash the mishaps straighten out.

Others in the cast are Renee Adoree, Walter Hiers, John Boles, Edith Yorke, Bert Roach, William V. Mong, and Eugene Cameron.

"Excuse Me" is a screen version of the stage farce by Mr. Hughes, which was one of the most successful of its kind in theatrical history. Alf Goulding directed. Other features on the same program include a new Cross Word puzzle, "Frozen Waters," a screen novelty, International News, Larry F. Canelo at the organ.

These men testified before the fact that the Fong Wan Herbs had permanently relieved both Sore Chest and Nervousness, and had made them strong and able to go back to work again.

They claim that no other treatment has repeatedly been vindicated in court and proved to be as effective as the Fong Wan Herbs.

This testimony was given in the first trial of Fong Wan in the latest campaign of the Medical Board against the Chinese Herbalists about the Bay.

LAST CONCERT OF RICHMOND BAND TONIGHT

The final municipal concert of the Richmond Concert orchestra will be given tonight at the Roosevelt school auditorium. The members of the orchestra are working hard to make their last appearance the best of all.

Several difficult selections are in preparation, some of which have never been heard in Richmond before. Two semi-oriental numbers, "Persian Dance" and "On the Steps of Central Asia," are very difficult and beautiful. "Indian Summer," a study of songs, should also appeal to the music lovers.

Mrs. Irma Randolph of Oakland, a member of the Sororist club of Alameda county and of the Business and Professional Women's club of Oakland, will sing two solos. She will sing "The Hand of Fate" by Carry Jacobs Bond and "When Honey Slings an Old Time Song" by Carey.

Mrs. Randolph was one of the first vocalists to do radio broadcasting, having sung from the Fairmont hotel, KGO and the Tribune radio. The public of Richmond will be pleased to hear that Mrs. Randolph is to take charge of the vocal department of the Richmond Conservatory of Music beginning Friday, March 26.

FAMOUS SCOUT WILL COVER NINE STATES

Outdoor Franklin, well-known Read scout and authority on fishing and camping is here shown at the wheel of the Western Auto Scout car. He will pilot this year in gathering an interesting outdoor data.

FRANKLIN HAS MODEL OUTFIT

"Outdoor Franklin" is about ready to take to the road again.

With a new sport car fitted with every needed accessory and camping convenience, Franklin will set out from Los Angeles within a few days to begin to gather first hand information regarding roads, camping places, hunting and fishing; every sort of outdoor information imaginable for the benefit of the information bureaus of stores of the Western Auto Supply Company.

In the course of his travels this year the road scout expects to visit every one of the nine western states in which the Western Auto Supply Company is represented, and his journeys will take him as far east as Denver and over the country from the Mexican border to Canada. He will visit all the national parks in this vast territory and collect all valuable information concerning the best roads into them, camping facilities, etc.

According to R. W. Gilbert, local manager of the Western Auto Supply Company, the photographs and information that Franklin's researches will collect will be a very valuable addition to the service of the Western Auto Supply Company.

"Nearly everyone who comes in to buy camping equipment has questions to ask concerning some locality they intend to visit," says Mr. Gilbert.

"Very few men in the west are as well equipped as Franklin to answer such questions and when he completes the itinerary that has been laid out for him this spring, he will have a further fund of valuable information."

"His outfit contains the finest equipment that our experts could assemble. It is safe to say that wherever Franklin pitches his tent it will attract keen interest from other motorists. It will be a compact, comfortable and practical outfit, such as Franklin's years of camping experience have taught him to select."

We believe that the material he will gather will prove of very practical value to our customers, and one that will be appreciated by thousands of motorists who love the outdoors."

thence to the Senate chamber where General Dawes will take the oath of office.

The Senate chamber will be filled with the leaders of the official and the diplomatic circles here. While General Dawes is being sworn in, President Coolidge will occupy a seat directly in front of the clerk's desk in the center of the chamber.

Following this ceremony the assembly will leave the senate and take places in the stand which has been erected in front of the capitol building. President Coolidge will be in the vanguard and will take his place on the raised stand at the foot of the capitol steps from which he will deliver his inaugural address.

PRESENCE OF THOUSANDS. And there, in the presence of the thousands of people, President Coolidge will place his hand on the worn Bible given him as a boy by his grandmother, and repeating the words of Chief Justice Taft, swear before God to uphold the constitution of the United States and to administer the office of the Presidency to the best of his ability.

Following his speech the President and his party will be hurried to the White House for a quick luncheon before taking their places in the official reviewing stand in front of the executive mansion.

It is to be a gala day for Washington—and one which will rival the impressiveness of inaugurations of old despite the fact that the entire ceremony will be marked with the New England simplicity which the President demands.
